

<http://www.touringcars.net/2014/10/tc3-international-series-reveals-2015-calendar>

TC3 International Series reveals 2015 calendar

Text Size

The new TC3 International Series has revealed the provisional calendar for its inaugural season in 2015, which will feature on three Formula One weekends and see the series visit three continents across Europe, Asia and South America.

The new entry-level touring car championship will feature on the bill of support races at three Formula One Grand Prix in Asia, with the series featuring at the Malaysian, Chinese and Singapore F1 events.

There will be a run of four events in Europe in May – with the series racing on four out of five weeks in that month.

In addition, the series will race at two circuits in South America. Firstly the championship will visit Buenos Aires in Argentina, before moving to Codegua in Chile just two weeks' later.

The final event on the calendar in November has yet to be confirmed and is rumoured to be set to take place at the Circuito da Guia in Macau, with the FIA World Touring Car Championship possibly dropping its season finale event.

2015 TC3 International Series Calendar

- 29 March – Sepang International Circuit, Malaysia
- 19 April – Shanghai International Circuit, China
- 3 May – Circuit de la Comunitat Valenciana Ricardo Tormo, Spain
- 10 May – Autódromo Internacional Algarve (Portimão), Portugal
- 24 May – Autodromo di Monza, Italy
- 31 May – Salzburgring, Austria
- 21 June – Sochi Autodrom, Russia
- 26 July – Autódromo Juan y Oscar Gálvez (Buenos Aires), Argentina
- 9 August – Autódromo Internacional Codegua, Chile
- 20 September – Marina Bay Street Circuit, Singapore
- 25 October – Buriram International Circuit, Thailand
- TBA November – TBA