

SUBARU TCR UNDER WAY

A two-car team of Subaru WRX STi contenders is scheduled to bring variety to the TCR International Series in time for the Singapore Grand Prix support round in September.

Italian squad Top Run, which has a long and successful history in rallying, is flat-out preparing the cars ready for a test programme.

Top Run boss Antonio Agnello said: "We aim to start testing by the first week of August and, if everything goes according to plan, we will apply for the homologation immediately afterwards. To race in Singapore is a priority goal."

The Subaru would take on the numerically dominant SEAT Leon Racer, and winning Audi TT and Honda Civic.